

ROBERTS, JOHN BRYN (1843 - 1931), lawyer and politician

Name: John Bryn Roberts
Date of birth: 1843
Date of death: 1931
Parent: Ann Roberts
Parent: Daniel Roberts
Gender: Male
Occupation: lawyer and politician
Area of activity: Law; Politics, Government and Political Movements
Author: Robert Thomas Jenkins

Born 8 January 1843 (and christened John Roberts), son of Daniel and Anne Roberts, Bryn Adda, Bangor, was a member of the widespread Roberts family of Castell, Llanddeiniolen, Caernarfonshire, for which see J. E. Griffith, Pedigrees, 381. He was educated at Cheltenham, qualified as solicitor in 1868, but was called to the Bar from Lincoln's Inn in 1889. In 1885 he became Liberal Member of Parliament for south Caernarvonshire, and held the seat till 1906, when he became county-court judge in Glamorgan. In 1918 he was transferred to North Wales and Chester. He retired in 1921, died at Bryn Adda 14 April 1931, and was buried in Llanfair-is-gaer churchyard. Bryn Roberts was a most remarkable man. A fearless rider to hounds, he took to driving a motor car when approaching his eighties, and became something of a peril on the roads, 'handling his car,' as a friend put it, 'as if it were a hunter.' His political Liberalism was of the old individualistic type; he had nothing to say to socialism, and nothing to nationalism in Welsh politics. He opposed the South African War, and when the 1914 war broke out, there is evidence that although his position as judge forbade comment in public from him, he felt that Britain ought not to have gone to war. Politically, indeed, he was an uneasy yoke-fellow; disapproving strongly of the 'Liberal Imperialism' of Asquith and Grey, he yet refused to support Lloyd George's campaign against the Balfour Education Act of 1902, and was an uncompromising opponent, later on, of Lloyd George's Coalition government. He made no mark in the Commons and was an unattractive platform speaker - yet, somehow, his audiences were impressed. He was a very sound lawyer; his county-court judgments were not infrequently unpopular, but on appeal they were upheld - a judge of the Appeal Court spoke of him as 'that very learned judge.' In matters religious, he was a Calvinistic Methodist, and an elder - but, here again, a man of sturdy independence.

Author

Emeritus Professor Robert Thomas Jenkins, (1881 - 1969)

Sources

Who was who?

E. Morgan Humphreys, Gwyr Enwog Gynt argraffiadau ac atgofion personol (Aberystwyth 1950), i, 28-39 (interesting reminiscences)

Further Reading

T. Marchant Williams, Welsh Members of Parliament, 1894 (Cardiff 1894)

NLW Archives: To the Electors of the Eivion Division of Camarvonshire

NLW Archives: Parliamentary General Election, July 1895: To the Electors of Eivion

NLW Archives: General Election 1906 Wales and Monmouthshire. A Souvenir containing photographs, biographical sketches etc., of all the Welsh MPs: Bryn Roberts

Wikipedia Article: John Bryn Roberts

Additional Links

Wikidata: Q6223704

Published date: 1959

PDF Print Cite

The Dictionary of Welsh Biography is provided by The National Library of Wales and the University of Wales Centre for Advanced Welsh and Celtic Studies. It is free to use and does not receive grant support. A donation would help us maintain and improve the site so that we can continue to acknowledge Welsh men and women who have made notable contributions to life in Wales and beyond.

Find out more on our sponsorship page.

APA Citation

Jenkins, R. T., (1959). ROBERTS, JOHN BRYN (1843 - 1931), lawyer and politician. Dictionary of Welsh Biography. Retrieved 11 Nov 2024, from <https://biography.wales/article/s1-ROBE-JOH-1848>

Copy to Clipboard

Privacy & Cookies
Copyright
The Project
Help
Contact

LGC
NLW

LLYFRGEL
THE NATION

